

Children's Safe Product Act – Reporting Rule – WAC 173-334

Reporting Guidance – Product Categories & Scope

August 7th 2013

The scope of children's products covered by this rule is dependent on several factors, covered in three sections of this guidance:

- Section 1: The product must fall into one of the product categories established in Section 1 of this guidance. These product categories are established based on the GS1 Global Product Classification Standard.
- Section 2: The product must be intended for children under 12. Products must follow the reporting schedule established in the rule with regard to products intended for children under 3.
- Section 3: Clarification on meaning of “under 3”
- Section 4: The product must be intended for sale in Washington State.

Section 1 – Product Categories

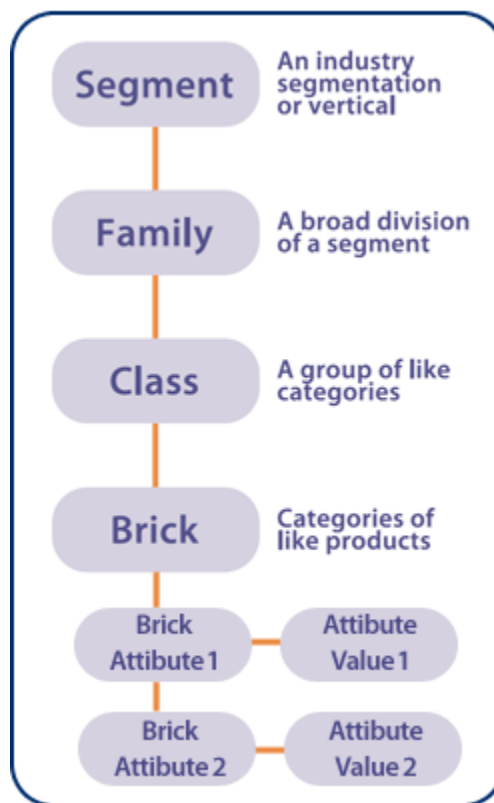

The proposed rule requires reporting by product category. The purpose of this section of the guidance is to clarify what is meant by the term “product category” in the context of the rule.

The definition of “product category” in the rule is as follows:

"Product category" means the "brick" level of the GS1 Global Product Classification (GPC) standard, which identifies products that serve a common purpose, are of a similar form and material, and share the same set of category attributes."

The definition of “children's product” established in the law and rule, in combination with an existing product categorization system, will be used to establish the products that are subject to reporting. The GS1 Global Product Classification (GPC) system will be used to identify product categories. The following explanation is from the GS1 website:

Children's Safe Product Act – Reporting Rule – WAC 173-334
Reporting Guidance – Product Categories & Scope

To ensure products are classified correctly and uniformly, the Global Data Synchronization Network (GDSN) uses the GS1 Global Product Classification (GPC), a system that gives buyers and sellers everywhere in the world a common language for grouping products in the same way.

This improves the Global Data Synchronization Network's data accuracy and integrity, speeds up the supply chain's ability to react to consumer needs, and contributes to breaking down language barriers. It also facilitates the reporting process across product silos.

The official (normative) GPC schema and GPC Browser information is published in Oxford English. Both the schema and the browser information are translated to other languages.

The foundation of GPC is called a “Brick;” GPC bricks define categories of similar products. Using the GPC brick as part of GDSN ensures the correct recognition of the product category across the extended supply chain, from seller to buyer. Bricks can be further characterized by Brick Attributes.

GS1 Segments Subject to Reporting

The rule requires that products for children must be reported at the “Brick” level. The agency will provide a web form for data entry, and the drop-down choices will mirror the choices established by the GPC system for the relevant segments.

Based on the definition of children’s products established in the CSPA, the reporting categories are limited to following segments in the GPC system:

- Arts/Crafts/Needlework
- Baby Care
- Beauty/Personal Care/Hygiene
- Camping
- Clothing
- Footwear
- Household/Office Furniture/Furnishings
- Kitchen Merchandise
- Personal Accessories
- Stationery/Office Machinery/Occasion Supplies
- Toys/Games

GS1 Bricks Subject to Reporting

Within these segments the bricks that must be reported on are established in the following tables:

Children’s Safe Product Act – Reporting Rule – WAC 173-334
Reporting Guidance – Product Categories & Scope

Section 2 – Age Group the Product is Intended to be Used By

The reporting requirement applies to products intended for children under 12. Additionally, the reporting schedule is also related to age. There are a number of things we could use to determine the intended age group for a particular product. The factors listed in the CSPA for both jewelry and cosmetics are:

“Represented in its packaging, display, or advertising as appropriate for use by children, sold in conjunction with, attached to, or packaged together with other products that are packaged, displayed, or advertised as appropriate for use by children; sized for children and not intended for use by adults.”

We intend to apply the same criteria for the other categories of products covered by the rule.

Section 3 – Clarification on Meaning of “Under 3”

In the rule, the Tier 1 product category includes “mouthable children’s product[s] intended for children who are age three or under.” The intent of this language is that mouthable products intended for children up to the age of three are included in the Tier 1 product category. Mouthable products for ‘3+’ children are not included in the Tier 1 product category.

Section 4 – Is the Product For Sale in Washington?

For products being sold at retail in traditional store fronts, this determination is easy to make. The CSPA also includes products sold by mail order or the internet. So under the current law if the product can be purchased by a consumer in Washington the manufacturer of that product would be subject to the requirement of the law and the subsequent rule.
